Waveland TG&Y to bring 48 job losses

BY DENA BISNETTE

Waveland's TG&Y store is expected to close shortly after Easter, leaving more than 40 employees without jobs.

Manager Keith Simmons said a definite date has not yet been set, but store employees learned last week that the store will be closed.

The TG&Y chain was purchased in December by McCrory Stores, a subsidiary of McCrory Corporation, which took over operating the Waveland TG&Y and the chain's other 717 outlets in January.

"We were surprised and disappointed. It is disheartening to know that you have to look for a new job or make a change of this type," Simmons said.

He said McCrory officials have told him that the chain will try to place management personnel in positions with the 500 TG&Y stores that will remain open, but it is likely they would have to relocate.

At Waveland, 20 full-time employees and 28 part-time employees will lose their jobs.

"So far most of the employees are taking it pretty well. I was kind of surprised about that, but we have a pretty good group of people here and we're close. That has helped a lot," Simmons said.

The store has already stopped receiving merchandise, and seasonal items such as summer clothing have been marked down.

Simmons said he expects that full-scale price reductions designed to reduce stock will begin soon or that McCrory will sell whatever is left when the store closes to a liquidation firm.

In addition, the store has stopped accepting checks in order to avoid complications with returned checks.

later on. Credit cards are still being accepted.

Lay-away purchases can no longer be made at TG&Y and many of the existing ones carry a shorter payment limit than the usual 60 days.

Wells Fargo guards are also roaming through the store to prevent theft. Simmons said stores about to close are usually regarded as particularly attractive to shoplifters.

"Shoplifters feel like they aren't being watched as closely as usual, that workers are too busy to catch them or that nobody cares," the manager explained.

The guards also protect against the possibility that a disgruntled employee might steal, although Simmons said it is very unlikely problems of that type will occur in Waveland.

So far there has not been a surge in business for the 11-year-old store, although Simmons expects one when the TG&Y starts closing out its merchandise. At present, business is slightly below normal.

The manager attributed the decrease to the no-check policy. "We all kind of hate to see it close because the store has been part of the community for almost 12 years," he said.

He added that TG&Y had been serving the community before the Waveland store opened through its Bay St. Louis store, which closed a few years ago after 15 years of operation.

Simmons said with the exception of fabrics, most of the merchandise the TG&Y has been providing is available in other stores in the Bay-Waveland area.

Delmer Wilcox of Waveland Avenue Realty, who manages Our Shopping Center where TG&Y is located, said McCrory does not operate stores larger than 20,000 square feet.

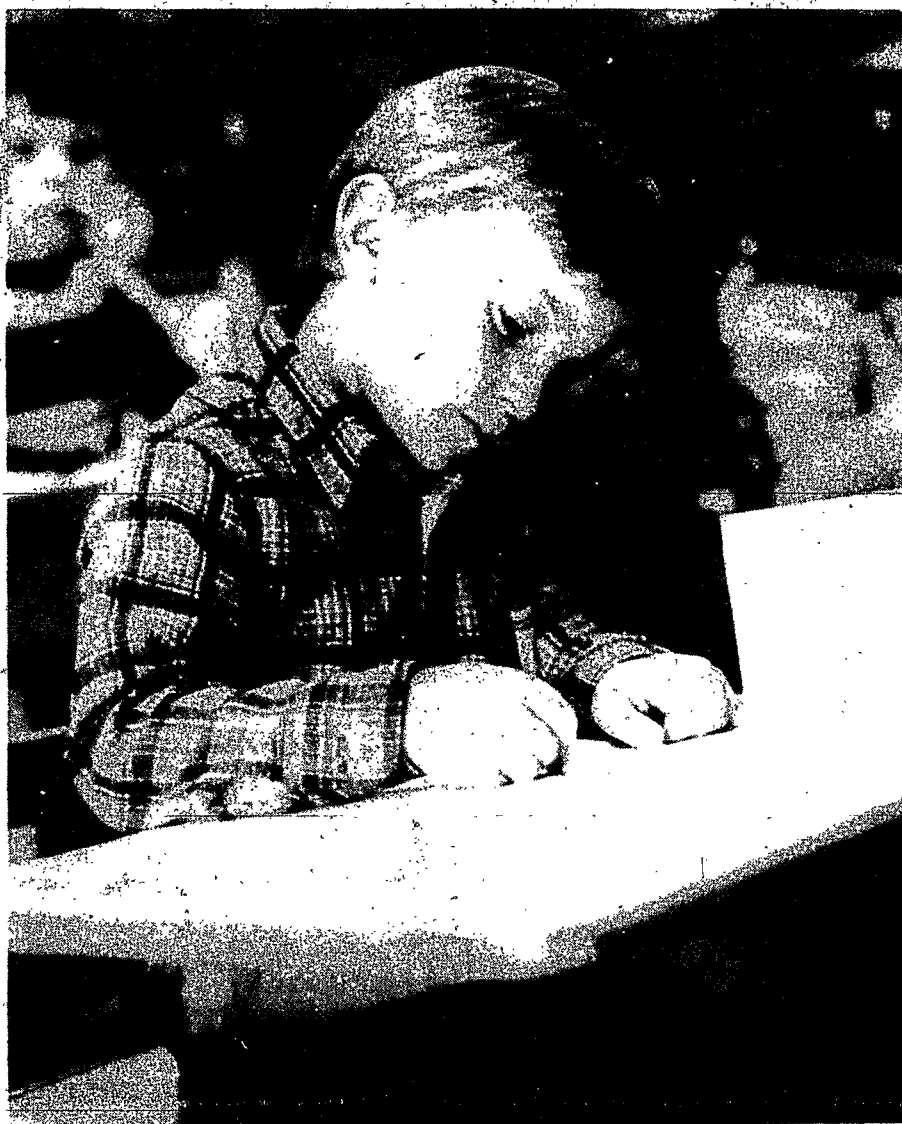

About three years ago, the Waveland TG&Y was enlarged to 50,000 square feet.

At that time, the owners signed a new lease, which currently has 17 years left.

Wilcox said the vacancy is not expected to hurt the shopping center for two reasons.

First, McCrory is liable for the lease and must legally continue to pay rent on the store until a new tenant is found.

Secondly, two major store chains, both of the same type as TG&Y, are already being considered as tenants. "We don't expect to see the store vacant for very long," Wilcox said.

GETTING READY FOR THAT FIRST DAY—James Holden III, 5, son of James and Stephanie Holden of Pearlinton, shows what it will be like for many five-year-olds in Hancock County when they embark on the first segment of a great educational journey with the opening of public kindergarten in late August. Pre-registration for the Hancock County School District kindergarten program will be conducted Thursday and Friday, March 20 and 21. (Hancock School District photo)

Hancock County School District kindergarten pre-registration set

Kindergarten pre-registration for Hancock County School District will be conducted Thursday and Friday, March 20-21, for the 1986-87 school year.

Pre-registration will be held from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Charles B. Murphy Elementary, Pearlinton; Gulfview Elementary, Lakeshore; and Hancock North Central Elementary, Hwy. 603.

All kindergarten students must be five-years-old by September 1, 1986. Age must be verified by a certified birth certificate before registration can be completed.

A Mississippi immunization slip will also be required before students are enrolled.

"The Hancock County School District is very excited about the new state public kindergarten program that is mandated by the 1982 Reform Act and we hope that the parents of prospective kindergarten students will join us in our excitement," said Terrell Randolph, superintendent.

Randolph said kindergarten program goals are designed to help the child to:

- 1- Develop a positive self concept
- 2- Achieve intellectual growth
- 3- Increase communication skills and competence
- 4- Increase skills in physical coordination
- 5- Increase competence in self-direction and independence
- 6- Increase competence in dealing with emotional feelings and social situations

- 7- Develop trusting relationships, and
- 8- Develop his or her natural curiosity and creative potential

Parents are encouraged to register their children early so that the Hancock County School District can successfully plan the Kindergarten program for the 1986-87 school year.

Philip Terrell, principal of C. B. Murphy Elementary in Pearlinton and coordinator for kindergarten programs in the Hancock County School District, noted while establishment of the k-grades this year is mandated by state law, attendance is optional.

"We are trying to encourage attendance especially by those five-year-olds who will not participate in any other pre-first grade programs," Terrell explained.

"We are also encouraging this early registration because state funding in July will be based on the number of pupils we can identify as participants," Terrell added.

"The state will support students who do not show up until the first day of school in late August, but we won't see any of that money until maybe November thus creating a financial hardship on the school district," he explained.

For additional information, parents may call the principals: Gulfview Elementary, William Hadcock, 467-4655; Hancock North Central, Dick Kinser, 255-7641; or Charles B. Murphy Elementary, Philip Terrell, 533-7872.

Parents who are unsure of the school area in which they reside may call the superintendent's office for clarification, 467-4466.

Commission Director James DeBlanc reported at the meeting that the Columbus and Greenville Railway of Columbus had offered a bid price of $45,000 on the locomotives.

The commission had originally intended to purchase only a single locomotive to serve as a backup for the one currently operating in the park.

However after hearing of the low price being asked for three, the commission agreed to purchase them all.

DeBlanc said he had been informed that the current price for a new locomotive is approximately $58,000. DeBlanc also told the commission that port employees had checked out the locomotives and reported that two of the three are in excellent condition and the other was operable.

Also at the meeting, Jerry Mitchell of the Bureau of Marine Resources, asked the board if there was still interest in a special management area plan for the Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Mitchell said that the study was started to prevent any problems future tenants would have with getting permits to build on property in the park.

In the plan the commission would allow 300 acres to be used as wetlands and in turn receive permits to fill other portions of wetlands.

Health information to be broadcast

Health information is being broadcast on "To Your Health" in March as a community service of Biloxi Regional Medical Center and WTAM Radio, 1240 AM.

"To Your Health" is aired twice daily on WTAM, once at 9:10 a.m. and again at 5:10 p.m.

"To Your Health" continues to offer the latest medical and health information to local people," said Cheryl J. Cooper, director of marketing and communications at the medical center.

"People interested in more information regarding smoking or who would like tips on quitting may call Biloxi Regional's Cancer Programs office at 432-1571, ext. 694," said Cooper. People may also sign up to be placed on the mailing list for BRMC's next smoking cessation seminar.

Other topics for March's "To Your Health" include: Three O'clock Slump, Ceramic Crowns, Laboratory Tumors, Beware The Ice Cubes, Heart Outlook, Reyes Syndrome, Heart Hormone and Exercise Pain.

Smokers are second hiring choice

The latest warning for smokers won't appear on cigarette packages, but it may become the most powerful reason yet to persuade people to stop.

The American Cancer Society's "Cancer News" details a trend toward banning smoking in the work place that includes hiring only non-smokers.

This is not just the result of complaints from non-smokers. Rather it is increasing evidence that smokers are expensive. The federal Office of Technology Assessment estimates disease and lost productivity due to smoking costs the US $65 billion a year.

Author Sue Berkman cites other reports that suggest smokers waste six percent of work time smoking, take 50 percent more sick leave, and use the health care system at least 50 percent more.

Some communities require non-smoking areas at work and, perhaps a sign of things to come, the village of Holden, Mass., has mandated non-smoking among its police officers. That means any new officers hired must be non-smokers.

Budget cuts to impact disabled

An estimated 9,000 disabled Mississippians could be denied vocational rehabilitation services under the budget now being recommended by the Mississippi Legislature.

In the proposed FY '87 budget, the Vocational Rehabilitation Division of the Mississippi Department of Rehabilitation Services would be allocated $3.06 million in state funds. This is approximately $900,000 below the minimum amount needed to achieve a full federal match. Since the federal government contributes $4.00 to every $1.00 the State of Mississippi allocates to Vocational Rehabilitation, the Department of Rehabilitation Services is looking at a nearly five million dollar reduction in its program.

Such a drastic decrease in funding will mean that over 2,000 disabled Mississippians will not be returned to employment, possible forced closings of vocational workshops throughout the state, as well as potential staff layoffs.

Special programs operated by the Department, such as the Home Attendant Care pilot project, could also be cut back due to the impact of the state's recommended funding.

The Vocational Rehabilitation Division provides counseling, job placement, training, and medical services to people with disabilities here in Mississippi. The agency has one goal - to return people to work. A recent study by the General Accounting Office indicates that for every dollar spent on rehabilitation services in Mississippi, more than $11.00 is returned to the state's general fund through income, sales, and other taxes.

At the proposed funding level, Vocational Rehabilitation would be unable to provide such a cost-effective program to the state of Mississippi.

Republican Women's Club hears Mayor Victor Franckiewicz Jr. on city government

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Chapter of Republican Women recently received an informal lesson in city government from Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Franckiewicz Jr.

Franckiewicz served as guest speaker at the group's luncheon Thursday. He discussed some of the historical background of city government in general as well as the modern government of the city of Bay St. Louis.

City government is one of the oldest forms of government in the world and existed before counties, states and nations, the mayor said. "Cities are real economic units, real social units and real cultural units," he explained.

In addition, city government is the most natural form of government, having evolved to serve the common interests of groups of people who settled in the same area.

Nations and states, although some of the boundaries may be natural like rivers or mountains, are artificial types of governments.

Counties are particularly artificial, having been established by state legislatures. The boundaries were determined through various methods.

In Mississippi, the boundaries of the counties were determined by how far an oxcart could be drawn in one day, Franckiewicz told the group.

"City governments in Mississippi are in a way the orphan children of the state. They are not even mentioned in the state constitution of 1890," he said.

City governments were gradually recognized by the state's other political entities and six forms eventually developed.

Bay St. Louis has had two modern forms of city government, while Waveland has remained under a special charter created by an act of the legislature.

Until nine years ago, Bay St. Louis was under the city commission form of government, in which the mayor and three elected commissioners handled all of the executive and legislative functions involved in the day-to-day operation of the city.

According to Franckiewicz, Bay St. Louis was the first city in Mississippi to switch to a mayor-council government.

The mayor-council government is designed to streamline executive functions under the mayor while turning over all legislative and appropriation duties to an elected council.

"Our present city council is incredibly diverse and very open to debate," Franckiewicz said. "We're very fortunate to have so many types of people represented."

The city presently has divided its operations into four departments, including administrative, utilities, police and fire protection.

In addition, the city has a municipal court, which is part of the city government but operates independently.

The city also has some separate commissions for specific purposes, including the City Housing Authority and Parks and Playgrounds Commission.

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District also operates independently of the city government, but the city provides representation for its residents through the appointment of board members.

Franckiewicz also briefly discussed the relationship between the city and county government and the recent consolidation of the Bay St. Louis and Hancock County tax collection systems, which has saved the city about $30,000 this year and is now being imitated by other cities.

In addition, Franckiewicz feels the city should look into possible consolidation of law enforcement dispatching and schools as a move toward increasing efficiency and coping with dwindling finances.

"I'm very enthusiastic about Bay St. Louis, Hancock County and the whole region. This area has all the great development and economic potential, but we have not yet created the problems many cities have created for themselves," the mayor said.

"We can develop and at the same time, if we're careful and work together on it, we can avoid the problems."

County schools principals approved for 1986-87 year

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County School Board approved a list of school administrators for the 1986-87 school year Monday.

There were no changes in the list recommended by Superintendent Terrell Randolph from the administrators who are currently serving.

Those approved include Donald E. Hillman, Hancock North Central principal; David Kopf, HNC Junior and senior high assistant principal; Dick Kinser, HNC Elementary principal; W. H. Haddock, Gulfview Elementary principal; and Philip Terrell, Charles B. Murphy Elementary principal.

During the meeting, Darion Spence of the Caesar Community near the Hancock County line asked the board why there was a delay in a December application for a lease of one acre of 16th Section land.

Spence told the board he had complied with every requirement he had been informed of to get the lease and had gone through all possible channels but there still seemed to be a holdup.

"I do not understand the delay on a piece of property that has not generated revenue in five years," Spence told the board.

Spence told the board he intended to open a convenience store on the property if the lease was granted to him.

Randolph told Spence that before the lease could be executed there must be an appraisal of the land and that sometimes took months. He also stated that the appraisal on the parcel of land had been received only this week.

Board member Monvel Cuevas told Spence he also wanted to take a look at the land and other available parcels before he made a decision on the lease.

The board also approved a letter of commendation to the district school bus drivers for 1,300,000 miles of driving without serious injury to any student.

In other business, the board approved a resolution requesting Senators Gene Taylor and Martin Smith and Representatives Walter James Phillips and Curtis Holston to support the Unified School Laws bill currently under consideration by the legislature.

—Approved a request to lease Lot 12, S/D #2, Sec. 16-9-16 to Melinda Singleton for $144 per year for 25 years.

Sheriff seeks four involved in shooting

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department requests anyone having information about a shooting Sunday, March 9 in the Bayou Phillips subdivision contact the sheriff's office.

Investigator Glen Strong said the department is searching for four suspects who were riding in a blue 1979 or 1980 Chevrolet.

The driver of the vehicle shot Roy Wagner, 34, of Bayou Phillips in the right shoulder Sunday night while Wagner was walking a dog along Arbor Drive, Strong said.

According to Strong, the driver possibly has black hair and a moustache.

Wagner was released from Hancock General Hospital Tuesday in good condition, according to hospital spokesman Mary Perkins.

GRAND LARCENY

Earlier this week, Strong arrested and charged Sarah A. Vedros, 27, of Pass Christian with grand larceny. She was arrested Monday, March 10 at her residence.

Vedros allegedly was involved in the theft of approximately $1000 of jewelry belonging to Judith Pearson of Bay St. Louis.

A juvenile was also taken in custody in connection with the incident.

—Approved a request to classify and lease a one acre commercial parcel of land in Section 29-5-15 to Donald and Janice Stockstill.

—Approved a request to release Candice Gail Hyatt, kindergarten, from District to attend school in Pearl River District for the 1986-87 school year.

—Approved a request for the purchase of Floor Machine for Hancock North Central.

*The desire to continually better the educational processes for the children of our school district, and the qualifications, education and experience to be a dedicated board member.

*The mother in the home knows best the experiences of her children in school.

Thank you all for your support - you voiced your concern for the children of our district on March 1 - you voted for the candidate most qualified to be your representative on the School Board, and we need your support again on March 15.

In considering the qualifications of both candidates you will see that I am the only one with experience in the schools; I am a graduate of Bay High; my children have been educated in the public school district for the past 14 years and my youngest child will be in the public schools for the next 12 years.

The run-off in the Bay-Waveland school board election will be held Saturday from 2-5 p.m. in Waveland.

Two weeks ago almost 500 qualified electors cast ballots in the election when three candidates were in the running. The field has now been narrowed to two, so it is still very important to vote.

The election will be held at the Waveland Elementary School on St. Joseph Street. It is for qualified electors in the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District living outside of the Bay St. Louis City Limits.

We realize there will be a little conflict with the time of the election as it will be at the same time as the Annual St. Patrick's Day Parade. This was not planned that way, it just happened.

Anyway, the parade begins at 2 p.m. and usually takes several hours, so voters could vote before or after visiting the Irish event. It would probably be better to vote before, and that way you will not forget.

Be sure to vote, and also remind your friends of the school board member election.

Saturday is the day for the Irish in the City of Waveland, and everyone usually in or visiting the city becomes Irish.

Jimmy Lagasse III, of Bay St. Louis has the honors of serving as Grand Marshal for the Waveland Civic Association's annual event. Colleen is Andrea Marie Ambrose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Ambrose of Bay St. Louis.

The parade Saturday will probably have more participants than ever, according to Jimmy Lagasse Jr., president of the Civic Association.

The parade begins at 2 p.m. at Waveland and Central Avenues, traveling on Central to Coleman, down Coleman to Beach Boulevard, east on Beach to Lafitte, north on Lafitte to Central, and west on Central, disbanding at the starting point.

In the parade and along the route there should be a lot of O'Ashman's, O'Bernard's, O'Cuevas', O'Dorn's, O'Erickson's, O'Fayard's, O'Galavan's, O'Harvill's, and on down the line.

We hope to see you at the parade.

The topic of discussion in recent days has been about some very small critters called gnats.

It seems to be more of them this year than ever before.

One resident commented the only time he saw them so bad was on the previous day.

It is hard to take a walk without being attacked by the fiery gnats.

Gardening is almost impossible, because one cannot stay too long in one spot without being almost eaten alive.

Gnats are one of the reasons I gave up on turkey hunting many years ago. I just could not keep still enough while being 'eaten alive' by gnats.

Hopefully they will not be around too long to pester us this spring.

Spring is baseball 'fever' time, and the Bay St. Louis Little League registration is set for Friday 6-8 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. - 12 noon; and Monday 6-8 p.m. at the League Ball Field located next to Bay Tiger stadium.

Registration is open for boys and girls ages 9-12, and a parent or guardian must furnish a certified birth certificate and reside within the Bay St. Louis League boundaries.

Further information on the registration can be obtained by calling Terrell LaFontaine, 467-3580; or Steve Carver, 467-7669.

Waveland's Little League held registration and tryouts last Saturday and T-Ball is included, so their age bracket is from six- to 12-years-old.

It is possible they may still need a few players on some teams in that area.

Gov. Bill Allain

MISSISSIPPI IS NOT ALONE IN PRESENT BUDGET CRISIS

As I have discussed the present budget problems of our state throughout the past year, I have tried to point out that ours is not a unique situation. Many other states are experiencing similar problems in balancing their state budgets.

A common thread flows through most of the states currently experiencing budget problems. Most of us are farm states at a time that farmers are suffering from personal economic woes. Most of us are energy states that depend on oil and gas taxes to make our budgets.

Most of us are states that have a high percentage of manufacturing jobs in our areas that have been lost when factories closed in favor of cheap foreign labor. And all of us are suffering from budget cuts caused by the federal Gramm-Rudman-Hollings act.

My message to you today is that, yes, Mississippi does have problems today, but we share those problems. We may have a gloomy today, but we are not doomed for tomorrow. The bright side to the budget problems in all these states is that their top budget priority is education. Thus, everyone shares our belief that education is the key to economic success.

Just to share a few examples of the problems other states are facing: Texas is facing a $1.3 billion shortage in its budget and Louisiana is $500 million short. Every time the price of a barrel of oil drops $1, Texas loses $100 million annually to the state treasury and Louisiana loses $14 million annually.

Arkansas is facing a 19 percent across the board budget cut and a 25 percent cut in its university budgets. The Governor of Arkansas noted recently that federal grants to state and local governments have declined by 37 percent since 1981, and the Reagan budget would cut another 19 percent in grants to state and local government.

These losses have to be made up somewhere, either with additional state or local funds or by terminating programs that were at one time considered beneficial. Other states with budget shortages include Minnesota, $734 million; Kansas, $130 million; Colorado, $56 million; Alabama, $500 million; Oklahoma, $473 million; Illinois, $127 million; and Montana, $7 million.

The positive side to the budget crisis is that we are all forced to prioritize our needs in state government. The end result will be a much streamlined state government. Only the essentials will remain when the prioritizing and reductions are completed.

Senator Thad Cochran

CANADIAN LUMBER IMPORTS

I am urging the administration and Congress to act promptly to curb the adverse impact growing Canadian lumber imports are having on American timber producers.

What we must have is an agreement with the Canadian government that provides an equitable and healthy competitive environment for both the United States and Canadian timber industries.

The industry in Mississippi is in serious trouble — the large volume of imports that has resulted in a dramatic drop in the price private landowners receive for their pulpwood and sawtimber.

During floor debate on the issue, I pointed out that $518 million in forest products were harvested in Mississippi during 1984, making it the third most valuable crop in the state.

American trade negotiators must redouble their efforts to reach an agreement with Canada on limiting lumber imports.

I am co-sponsoring legislation addressing the import problem. Unless diplomatic efforts in this field succeed, the Congress will be forced to take drastic and dramatic action.

Lumber prices for Mississippi timber growers have dropped from $230 to $130 per thousand board feet the past two years, which has impacted adversely on loggers, truckers, sawmills, distributors and other support industries.

A majority of private forestry landowners and sawmill operators in Mississippi are now operating at a deficit. We are reaching the point where this very vital and important industry is collapsing.

The rising level of Canadian lumber imports is also jeopardizing the intensive reforestation program and forest management efforts by state landowners.

JACKSON— It's strange that a century or so ago in Mississippi, a lottery was not considered a radical way of raising money for educational purposes. But in 1886 it is regarded as a quite radical approach to helping pull the state out of desperate financial straits.

Ole Miss Historian Dr. David Sansing has dug up evidence that Mississippians, going all the way back to 1802 when Jefferson College was established at Washington, Miss., have used a lottery to support educational institutions.

Ironically, Mississippi College at Clinton, today a Baptist institution, conducted a lottery authorized by the Legislature to raise $25,000 back in 1827 to endow the school, Sansing's research shows.

As late as 1887, a $5,000 lottery was used to supplement state appropriated funds at the University of Mississippi.

Several Southern states after the Civil War turned to lotteries to replenish their treasuries which had been depleted by the war.

But a major scandal in the Louisiana lottery in the 1880s, involving bribery of political officials by the privately-run Louisiana Lottery Company, sent a wave of anti-lottery reaction across the South and resulted in Mississippi specifically prohibiting lotteries in the Constitution of 1890.

Consequently, it takes a two-thirds vote of the Legislature to submit an amendment to a statewide vote to repeal the lottery ban, and there is where the foes of lottery have concentrated their efforts.

Thus far they have succeeded in blocking the lottery amendment by only a matter of a handful of votes in the Senate. The House had given overwhelming approval to a lottery amendment last year.

The opposition outside the Legislature has come from a fundamental religious lobby, principally the Christian Action Committee of the Mississippi Baptist Convention.

The feeling here is that if Mississippi voters are given a chance to express their will on legalizing a lottery, it will pass easily. A recent poll by Mississippi State University revealed 72 percent of Mississippians favored a lottery.

No Southern state now has a lottery, but the experience of West Virginia, where voters ratified a state lottery last year, is probably very comparable to what could be expected in Mississippi, since the two states are about on a par economically and have similar religious backgrounds.

When the lottery began in West Virginia in January, the estimate for the first month was that sales would amount to $6.8 million; instead, sales of lottery tickets for the month came to $12,480,000, or $2.05 per capita statewide.

The projection of sales for the entire year in West Virginia had been $62 million. Now that estimate has been raised to $117 million.

Amazingly, the little town of Peterstown, W. Va., pop. 640, located near the Virginia state line, had sales of $100,000 in lottery tickets the first month, a vast majority of it from citizens of the Old Dominion state.

The bonus of a state lottery is the additional revenue, and the increased trade, that places like convenience stores and other outlets for sales of lottery tickets generate from the lottery.

Each vendor gets 5 cents of each dollar ticket sold. In Peterstown, for instance, lottery ticket sales put $5,000 clear profit into the local cash registers in January. Even more so, business places in the town reported their overall business was up substantially.

Some in Mississippi, such as Sen. Howard Dyer of Greenville, one of the key sponsors of the lottery amendment, have speculated that a Mississippi lottery would lure thousands of persons to business places in Mississippi towns that border on Louisiana, Alabama and Tennessee.

"You can just imagine what this would mean for towns along the Gulf Coast, or Natchez, Vicksburg, Holly Springs, Tunica and others," Dyer says.

Estimates that Mississippi could realize as much as $75 million from a lottery the first year and $100 million by the third year were thought by many (including this writer) to be a pipe dream. But the West Virginia experience indicates that these figures could be very realistic.

Out of every dollar lottery ticket sold, the state would get 38 cents, which, according to the constitutional amendment now hanging in suspension in the Senate, would be dedicated one-half to public schools and one-half to higher education.

Initially, the proposed amendment would not be put on the ballot until November, but considerable sentiment is now building in the Legislature to revive the amendment and put it on the ballot in June when the voters will have a new property classification amendment up for their approval.

A lottery in itself would not solve the entire fiscal needs of the state, but many see it as the most painless way to raise a substantial amount of revenue. Public sentiment is rising to tap any available source in order to prevent the collapse of the state's most valuable services.

DEVELOPING AND PROTECTING

In South Mississippi we take great pride in the economical growth of our region. Our ability to entice business and industry to locate with us is a tribute to our hard-working people and to the balanced development of our resources.

Our economic growth resulted in a net increase of 4,000 jobs in 1985 over 1984 just in the 5th Congressional District. Economic development is important to us in South Mississippi, but so, too, is the protection of the natural settings we enjoy when we're off the job and which bring tourists to our area.

Some of the most scenic vistas in the country are in Mississippi. We have worked to protect many of them by including them in the National Parks System and in the Gulf Islands National Seashore.

North of the Gulf Coast, we have a beautiful area, still in its natural state, located along the Black Creek which I am asking the Department of the Interior to designate as a component of the Wild and Scenic Rivers System. This designation would allow for keeping portions of the creek and the area along its banks in an undeveloped state.

Several years ago I floated the Black Creek with representatives of the National Forest Service, and I was very impressed with its special scenic value. At that time I introduced legislation in the House of Representatives, which subsequently became law, to provide for a study of the Black Creek, with the intention of including it in the Wild and Scenic Rivers System. That study which is nearing completion soon will be sent to the President.

In anticipation of the study's positive recommendations, I have introduced legislation in this Congress to designate a 21-mile section of the Black Creek within the DeSoto National Forest as a scenic area. This designation would have the least impact on private lands while preserving a portion of the creek in a scenic condition at a minimum cost.

On March 6, I testified before the House Subcommittee on National Parks and Recreation and urged immediate action on my legislation. I told the subcommittee members that the Black Creek's incorporation into the Wild and Scenic Rivers System would be the first such designation in the State of Mississippi.

I am excited about being a part of the preservation of the Black Creek and of the enhancement of the recreational value of the creek by this proposed designation. It is something we should preserve, for our children and for their children.

Mississippi Reporting Service Legislative Update

Week of March 3

By Rosa Lee H. Jones
Ethics and elections highlighted floor action in the legislature during the first week of March.

The ethics panel was given permanent status and broader powers to look into public officials and employees' conduct Wednesday by the House.

The Senate, which has already passed a slightly different version of the bill will consider the changes made in the measure by the House.

A bill designed to update the sometimes confusing state election laws passed the House on Thursday. The House version of the 217-page bill included a provision that requires candidates and political action committees that receive more than $200 to report their finances.

Also in the bill were: reform measures for absentee ballot procedures, a requirement that all voting be automated by 1989, and an extension of polling hours to 7 p.m.

A similar bill passed the Senate several weeks ago and now returns to the Senate for the differences in the two bills to be worked out.

Because of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, this bill will also have to receive the approval of the U.S. Department of Justice.

Approved by the Senate was a bill for a March 'Super Tuesday' simultaneous southern presidential primary to give Dixie voters a larger voice in national politics.

But some state senators want to continue to hold congressional primary elections in June, even though the second election could cost $1 million or more.

The primary bill now goes back to the House, where it originated, for consideration. The House version would allow congressional primaries to move to March.

The new ethics bill would give the Ethics Commission power to file court suits and would prohibit full-time government employees from performing any service that interferes with their regular duties, which could prevent state employees from lobbying.

The bill also conforms to a proposed amendment to the conflict-of-interest section of the state constitution.

A uniform school bill to give county school districts the same fiscal status as city districts was among several major bills that survived a House committee deadline. Under the bill, county supervisors would have to fund the entire budget submitted a school board, as long as it is within seven percent of the previous year's budget. City officials already must approve a municipal school district's budget.

Home rules for counties, along with a requirement that counties vote on the unit system of management and a plan to distribute property tax from Grand Gulf nuclear plant to 45 counties are other bills that were kept alive in the House.

Some bills that did not reach the House floor before deadlines are being considered by a House Rules subcommittee. Close to 120 bills were killed due to the filibustering. A resolution to revive any of them requires a two-thirds approval by both the House and the Senate.

Some of the actions that could be resurrected are: resolutions calling for the delay of the kindergarten program, a resolution designed to take $11 million from the highway department, a statewide lottery, and the closing of Mississippi University for Women, Mississippi Valley State and the state's dental and veterinary medicine schools.

Hancock Food Bank committee to hear New Orleans speakers

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Food Bank will meet tonight at 7 p.m. in Virginia Hall at Christ Episcopal Church to hear several speakers from New Orleans Food Bank discuss their efforts to provide food to the needy.

The meeting will be the second for the Hancock County Food Bank, organized about two weeks ago.

According to Leontine DeRoche, chairperson of the food bank's steering committee, the new organization will help local churches and other groups coordinate their efforts to feed the hungry.

"We're not trying to compete with the welfare department. Our service is for people who have fires, who come to town looking for jobs or who are on the waiting list for welfare," she said.

She said assistance in the past has been provided through individual ministers; the sheriff's department, the Hancock County Emergency Relief Fund and organizations like St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The food bank is helping to coordinate these efforts to assist the needy, reduce duplication of services and reach people not affiliated with any church.

The Episcopal Diocese of Mississippi has adopted "Fight Famine" as its slogan for 1986, which helped give De Roche the idea of starting a food bank.

The diocese has agreed to provide the food bank with rent for a year, she said.

De Roche said she took the idea of a food bank to Ina Piazza, who had helped organize the Hancock County Relief Fund.

"She is very much behind the food bank and when I told her what I wanted to do, she started giving names of people who would want to help," De Roche said.

De Roche represents Christ

Episcopal in addition to serving as chairperson.

Piazza represents the Hancock County Emergency Relief Fund and the St. Vincent de Paul Society chapter at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Others on the steering committee include Rev. Lee Morris, Macedonia Baptist Church, Waveland; Bea Gallejos, St. Vincent de Paul Society of St. Clare Catholic Church; Clarice Hively, Main Street United Methodist Church; the Rev. William Kelly, St. Augustine Seminary; and Evelyn Johnson, Christ Episcopal Church.

A third meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m. April 1 at Virginia Hall.

Spring brings annual phone company plea

It is that season again! South Central Bell is asking the cooperation of all area residents who plan to "burn" their land or property this season.

Please be considerate of any telephone junction box or pedestal on your property or on the road right-of-way that may be in the area you plan to burn," said Pat Santucci, district manager.

Excessive heat generated by a grass or brush fire melts the telephone wires and causes all area phones to go out-of-order. Not only is this expensive and time consuming repair, but it creates quite an inconvenience to the telephone users who cannot use their telephone, even in emergencies.

"Any property owner who plans to burn off his land should call our toll free number, 1-800-227-6477. We will send a representative to locate and mark any telephone equipment in the area. We will either dig a fire break or remove the weeds so the fire cannot harm it," Santucci added.

"This is the same service we offer for those who plan to dig or excavate and are not sure of telephone cables in the area," Santucci concluded.

TIGHT NERVES

This materialistic age is often blamed for all our frustrated and nervous tension. When the person becomes tense and overwrought with anxiety, he is urged to take tranquilizers or rest from work. But it is a hard and poor remedy to follow when you are tied up inside. Authorities in our field have found that movement helps to get a person from the inside, and they usually blame outside conditions for causing them to be tense and overwrought. Studies indicate that there is a physical reason for nervousness; that it can and often does result from an interrupted nerve supply. This irritates the nervous system and slows down the life currents to the body. A Chiropractic examination can detect an interruption in the nerve supply and proper care will aid in restoring normal nerve function, your peace of mind, and vigorous health again.

DIAMONDHEAD ACADEMY, 88360 Diamondhead Drive East, will be featured in the Diamondhead Pilgrimage Tour Friday, March 28. Kindergarten through fifth grade students are attending this school for the first year. The land for the school was donated by Purcell Company and parents and community members helped to get the buildings installed. The school has been adopted by the Diamondhead Garden Club as a civic project to assist with the beautification of the grounds. Future plans include a nature trail, vegetable garden, wildflowers and landscape maintenance by the students. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

House approves cost of living measure

The House has approved a 3.4 percent cost-of-living adjustment in compensation paid to 2.2 million veterans with service-connected disabilities in an attempt to bypass a House-Senate deadlock that could prevent veterans from receiving the increased benefits in their January checks. The increase, retroactive to December 1, would also apply to benefits paid to over 300 thousand survivors and dependents of veterans who have died of service-related causes.

"Many veterans depend on that annual increase in their checks. It helps them keep pace with inflation," said Congressman G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery (D-MS), Chairman of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs. "The House took the initiative and developed a clean COLA bill, one without any unrelated or extraneous provisions. We needed to consider the COLA separately and, hopefully, we can resolve it very soon."

In October, the House passed a 3.7 percent compensation COLA as part of its budget reconciliation package. On December 2, one day after the date that the COLA normally becomes effective, the Senate passed an omnibus measure containing a 3.1 percent COLA and several complex provisions dealing with housing and grave markers.

"Our Committee has not had an adequate opportunity to review these other provisions, and we could be debating with the other body for some time to come. The COLA would be tied up and delayed in the process," said Montgomery.

The increase, which now goes to the Senate for consideration, is three-tenths of one percent above inflation which, according to Montgomery, "brings veterans' compensation recipients back into line with other groups receiving Federal benefits." In 1984, the Congress authorized a 3.2 percent compensation COLA based on the anticipated increase in the Consumer Price Index. As it turned out, the CPI rose by 3.5 percent.

"...simple justice mandates that we make up that shortage this year, no more, and no less," said Rep. Douglas Applegate (D-OH), who chairs the Veterans' Affairs Subcommittee on Compensation, Pension and Insurance and who initiated the measure approved today.

Veterans receiving pension payments got a 3.1 percent increase, the same as social security, effective December 1.

Mississippi Pilgrimage Season underway

Webster's Dictionary defines a pilgrimage as "a journey by a pilgrim," and a pilgrim as "one who travels to a shrine or holy place as a devotee."

The shrines and holy places of the Middle East are in no way similar to the historic structures found in Mississippi, but to aficionados of America's past, the magnificent homes of Natchez and other towns serve as a mecca for thousands of tourists who annually include Mississippi Pilgrimages in their vacation plans.

The idea of a pilgrimage in America began in Mississippi during a state garden club meeting in 1932 when a group of Natchez citizens opened their pre-Civil War homes for tour in conjunction with a scheduled tour of gardens.

That concept of extended hospitality over 50 years ago has proven so successful that Natchez now hosts Spring and Fall Pilgrimages and other Mississippi towns from Port Gibson to Aberdeen have established Pilgrimages of their own. The idea has spread to communities all across America.

Mississippi's Pilgrimage season begins in early Spring with the opening of the Natchez Pilgrimage March 8.

Most Pilgrimages are held over a weekend, but the length varies from one day in Kosciusko to a month in Natchez.

The Spring season ends the last weekend in April with Pilgrimages in Carrollton, Holly Springs and Lawrence County.

Observant visitors touring the antebellum mansions will notice that all are not alike. The architecture varies from town to town and within individual communities, making each of the tours unique.

Historic designers were influenced by different eras, personalities, terrain, climate, social conditions, political influences, and materials.

For example, Columbus offers town houses and plantation mansions; Holly Springs abounds in ornate houses trimmed in ironwork from a local foundry; Gulf Coast antebellum homes are raised to allow cool ocean breezes to flow underneath and to protect residents from "diseases" in ground and from high water.

Natchez has homes which developed in three different eras before the Civil War: Spanish rule, British rule, and the King Cotton period. Several hundred antebellum structures remain today with approximately 30 homes open during Spring and Fall Pilgrimage.

Pilgrimage homes throughout the state are richly furnished with period antiques. These homes were usually built by extremely wealthy men who often imported elaborate trimmings and commissioned some of the world's best architects to design their dwellings.

Although most Mississippi communities feature antebellum homes during pilgrimage, some highlight other periods of the state's rich history.

For instance, Lawrence County's tour includes rustic pioneer structures while Kosciusko's focuses on Victorian homes.

On the Gulf Coast, modern technology is represented as well with a tour of the National Space Technology Laboratories in addition to garden and home tours.

Enhancing the tours of homes in each area are other activities, ranging from arts and crafts shows to living history demonstrations to elaborate pageants. In any community, visitors will find that Southern hospitality keynotes all events.

Mississippi Pilgrimage towns and dates for 1986 are: Aberdeen, April 11-13; Carrollton, April 26-27; Columbus, April 2-13; Gulf Coast, March 15-28; Holly Springs, April 25-27; Kosciusko, April 12; Lawrence County, April 25-27; Natchez, March 8-April 6 and October 4-19; Oxford, April 18-20; Port Gibson, April 12-13; and Vicksburg, March 15-30.

Antique Arcade featuring special exhibit

The Antique Arcade Complex in downtown Bay St. Louis is featuring a special "Olde Tymes" southern exhibit for the Bay-Waveland Pilgrimage visitors Thursday, March 27th.

The exhibit will be in the two front rooms on the mezzaine level between 12 noon and 6 p.m.

It will feature antiques and artifacts from the Mississippi-Louisiana area, and of very special interest will be early items from Hancock County.

There will also be furnishings from the Civil War period. Included are pieces of rosewood furniture from a Pass Christian estate — an old plantation secretary, an early bed and armoire, as well as household furnishings and glass and china.

The Antique Arcade is located in the historic Shieldsboro Square, the original town square district of the village of Shieldsboro, now Bay St. Louis.

The complex is part of the Historic District renovation which features other historic buildings of quaint retail shops and a restaurant, all of which have been nominated to the National Register in Washington, D.C.

The building has served as the Woodman of the World Hall Cedar Grove Camp No. 507, and as the office of The Sea Coast Echo for several years.

It was built "for use of serving refreshments on occasion of balls and other forms of entertainment."

The upper level which is the original Ballroom is a huge hall of empire design. Of special architectural interest is the tin relief paneling effect on the high 30 feet ceiling and walls. It is currently in use as an antique market hall center.

The entrance of the building at street level consists of 3 floors, the upper and lower mezzaines and the main floors. Situated on these levels are finer antique shops, gift shops, an old time country store, a candy shop and an ice cream parlor.

AN EXTRA STOP available for those on the Bay-Waveland Pilgrimage Tour is the Antique Arcade Complex in downtown Bay St. Louis. Featured during the pilgrimage will be a special "Olde Tymes" southern exhibit. The exhibit will be available from 12 noon to 6 p.m. in the two front rooms on the mezzaine level of the arcade. The pilgrimage will be Thursday, March 27th.

APPRECIATION SERVICE

First Missionary Baptist Church, corner of Sycamore and Third Streets, will host a Pastor's Aid Club appreciation service at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Rev. L.V. Holliman and the congregation of Ebenezer Baptist Church in Gulfport will be special guests.

Bond set in assault

Bond has been set at $20,000 for a 21-year-old Pass Christian man charged with assault on a police officer.

Hancock Justice Court Judge Barbara Frierson set bond for David S. Maynard of Rt. 3, Box 641, Pass Christian, at a preliminary hearing this week.

Maynard was injured during a struggle with the deputy in Diamondhead early Sunday.

He is being held in Hancock County Jail.

Maynard was arrested after he was involved in what Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson described as "a fierce struggle" with Deputy James Ladner about 7:45 a.m. at the Gulf Service Station in Diamondhead off the Interstate 10 exit.

Ladner was investigating a complaint of a disturbance at the station. That followed a report from the Pass Christian Police Department that a disorderly person, possibly drunk, was headed toward the area.

When Ladner arrived and arrested Maynard, Maynard attacked Ladner and a struggle followed, Peterson said.

"The deputy's gun dropped to the pavement, and Maynard picket it up," Peterson said.

"Ladner wrestled it away from him and hit him in the head and face several times with the weapon," the sheriff reported.

Maynard was treated for a head injury in the Hancock General Hospital emergency room before being jailed.

He is charged with assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, public drunkenness and destroying county property.

Peterson said that Maynard's blood-alcohol content was measured at .29.

would allow the full use of approximately 75 acres.

The board told Mitchell they were committed to pay $1,500 for each acre of the park utilized to the Economic Development Authority which loaned the commission funds to purchase the land.

To put 300 aside for conservation purposes the commission could have to pay EDA $450,000.

Along with the bureau, the board questioned EDA last year about being forgiven the amount per acre. DeBlanc said according to the answer he had, EDA would not forgive the debt.

Mitchell said he would attempt to talk to EDA again and see if there was any way the amount could be forgiven or lessened.

The commission said they were very interested in the special management area plan but only if EDA would not require the payment.

DeBlanc also reported to the commission that McKinney Towing Company had recently completed purchase of a parcel of land located in the park and intended to operate a repair business for tugboats and barges.

According to DeBlanc the business will mainly service McKinney's own fleet but will also provide the service for the public.

DeBlanc said 50-60 people would be employed at the new business.

In other business the commission authorized DeBlanc to negotiate with an engineer the price for preparing specifications for an additional railroad spur in the park.

They also voted to investigate the possibility of increasing railroad tariffs on switching charges and storage.

Highway Patrol presents annual awards to troopers

Law enforcement got a boost Friday night in Jackson when 13 Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol troopers from throughout the state were cited for outstanding achievement.

Two troopers were presented lifesaving medals and certificates, another was selected statewide 'Trooper of the Year' and 10 others were honored for being named district- or bureau-level 'Trooper of the Year.'

Trooper Joe Frank Bond Jr., 32, of Gautier in Jackson County, and Sergeant John Randall Myers, 37, of Jackson, were presented lifesaving medals and certificates resulting from incidents that occurred in 1984 and 1985, respectively.

Sergeant Malcolm V. McLendon, 45, of Leaf in Greene County, was selected statewide 'Trooper of the Year' bringing to a climax an annual program sponsored by the Mississippi District Exchange Clubs.

The 10 district- or bureau-level 'Trooper of the Year' honorees chosen from the ranks of the Highway Patrol's 573 sworn officers, include Master Sgt. Garry Austin, Liberty, Criminal Investigation Bureau; Trooper First Class Donnell Berry, Jackson, Jackson District; Staff Sgt. Charles Scarborough, Grenada, Greenwood District; Trooper First Class William Ellis, Senatobia, Batesville District; and Sgt. Charles E. Lockhart, Ripley, New Albany District.

Also, Trooper Charles Lee Miley, Columbus, Starkville District; Sgt. William C. Jarvis, DeKalb, Meridian District; Sgt. Howard L. Eubanks, Laurel, Hattiesburg District; Sgt. Bill Dillon, Pascagoula, Gulfport District; and Trooper Nolan Sinclair, McComb, Brookhaven District.

This is the sixth consecutive year that the Mississippi District Exchange Clubs have sponsored the 'Trooper of the Year' program to recognize and commend outstanding Highway Patrol officers.

"This program is a morale booster for our officers and for all of law enforcement," said James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety.

"It gives our people the opportunity to select the Highway Patrol officer they feel best represents their profession."

"The Mississippi District Exchange Clubs are to be commended for the role they play in recognizing and paying tribute to law enforcement," Roberts said.

The lifesaving medals and certificates received by Trooper Bond and Sergeant Myers were presented because they took "direct, immediate, and positive action to preserve the lives of others who were in real and imminent danger of dying," Roberts said.

Bond was cited for action he took after stopping to check a parked car at 4:30 a.m. on Aug. 29, 1984, on Interstate 10 (just west of the Theodore exit in the Gulfport District) and found a Pascagoula man semiconscious in a pool of blood inside the car.

The man had been stabbed in his back, head and hand. He told Bond he had been stabbed and robbed in Alabama and was attempting to drive himself to Singing River Hospital.

The loss of blood and fatigue forced him to pull his car over near the Mississippi 63 exit in Escatawpa.

Bond had been a trooper for about three months when the incident occurred. He radioed for an ambulance and administered emergency care to stop the bleeding. The man has since recovered from the stab wounds.

Bond was commissioned into the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol upon graduation from the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy in May of 1984.

He is a graduate of Colegio Tepeyac del Valle High School in Mexico City, Mexico, and holds a bachelor of science degree in marketing and business administration from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Bond and his wife, the former Pamela Ely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis S. Ely of Lucedale, are the parents of two children, Travis Steede and Reagan Alexis Bond.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Frank Bond Sr. of Mexico City, Mexico.

Bond and his family are members of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Gautier.

Sergeant Myers' lifesaving medal and certificate were awarded as the result of an incident that occurred in May of 1985 when a woman was dragged during an alleged taste test on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Myers and his wife, Donna Hodges Myers, were sunning on the Biloxi beach when a man approached a nearby woman and asked her to participate in a taste test for a marketing research company.

As it turned out the tomato juice she was given contained a drug which left the woman in a convulsive state.

The action taken by Myers to secure emergency medical care is attributed to saving the woman's life.

Mrs. Myers was presented a 'Certificate of Recognition' for assisting her husband in providing care for the woman.

Myers was commissioned into the Highway Patrol in 1968 and has served as a trooper in Canton and Jackson. For several years he was a member of the executive security staff assigned to the governor.

He is a former armorer at the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy.

A native of Rankin County, Myers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Myers of Pelahatchie. He is the father of a son, Jeff Keith Myers.

Sergeant McLendon was named 'Trooper of the Year' representing the Driver Services Bureau. His selection as statewide 'Trooper of the Year' is based on his exemplary record with the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol since being commissioned in 1966.

McLendon was graduated from McLain High School where he was president of his freshman, junior and senior classes. During his senior year, he was elected president of the Future Farmers of America, most intellectual, most likely to succeed, and voted 'All Conference' in the Singing River Football Conference.

He was graduated from Jones County Junior College in Ellisville and holds a bachelor of science degree in criminal justice from the University of Southern Mississippi. He lacks six hours earning a master's degree.

While attending the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy as a Highway Patrol Cadet, McLendon was elected class president.

He has served in the Driver Services Bureau of the Highway Patrol since 1981. He is currently a Motor Vehicle Inspection officer.

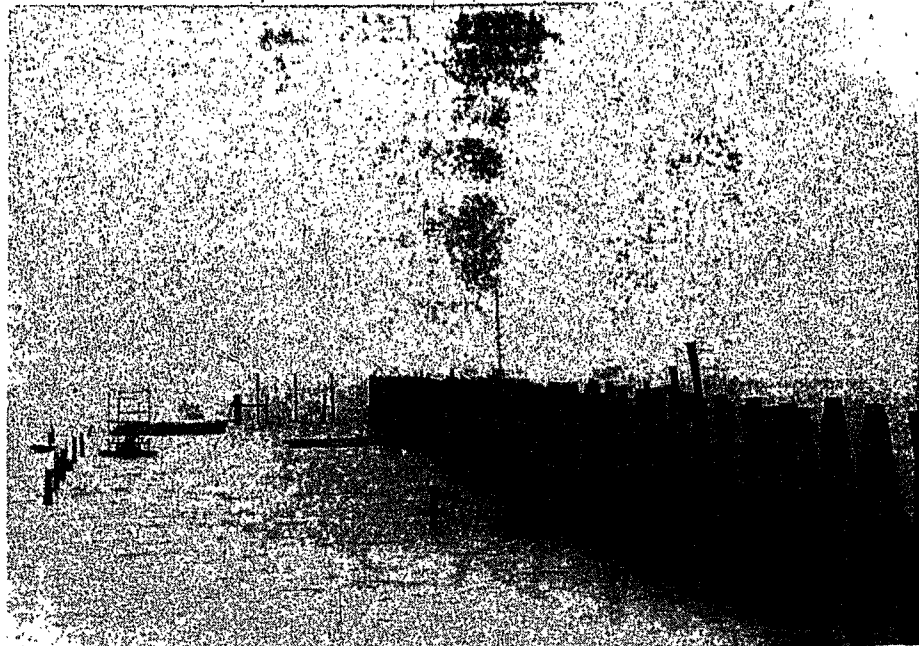

McLendon and his family are members of Leaf Baptist Church where he is Sunday School director and young adult Sunday School teacher.

He is an active member of the Greene-George County Bold Mission Team in California.

In 1985, McLendon took a week of his vacation to help build a church in Sacramento, Calif.

For the past five years he has served as coach in the Green County Dixie Youth Baseball Program and has served as president of the McLain High School Athletic Booster Club for three years.

UM Library receives stocks, American history collection

A collection of American history manuscripts and books and 1,000 shares of stock in Storer Communications Inc. have been given to the John Davis Williams Library at The University of Mississippi to honor a former student body president.

Director of Libraries Grey Cole said the donations have been made by Lionel F. Baxter of Jacksonville, Fla., a Storer board member for 25 years and former executive with the major broadcasting corporation.

The Storer stock was tendered and proceeds of some $100,000 will be used to create an exhibit room for the Baxter History Collection.

The contributions honor Hermann Baxter, brother of Lionel and J. C. Baxter of Bay St. Louis.

Herman Baxter was Ole Miss Associated Student Body president in 1943 and a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, the Scabbard and Blade and the Hermanean Literary Society.

He died in military service during World War II, and a university residence hall was later named in his honor.

The Baxter History Collection was developed by Lionel Baxter from his lifelong interest in American history, especially the Civil War. The collection includes more than 1,000 books and manuscripts, including autographed documents from William Penn, Robert E. Lee, Francis Marion and Charles Carroll of Carrollton.

"We're extremely pleased to add to our research collections with this memorial gift," said Cole. "The Hermann Baxter Room will be included in a new addition being planned for the library. Any funds remaining after construction of the room will be used to purchase manuscripts and books that will enrich the Baxter Collection."

Lionel Baxter has had a long career in broadcasting, serving as vice president for Washington affairs for Storer from 1969-74, as president and director of Cable TV Inc. of Birmingham from 1972-74 and on numerous corporate boards.

The brothers were born in New Orleans and reared in Jackson and Birmingham. Lionel was news director of WJDX radio in Jackson in 1938 and spent many years with WAPI and WBRC in Birmingham.

The gifts were made to The Campaign for Ole Miss, which is nearing its goal of $25 million in private contributions to enhance academic excellence at the university.

Hancock United Way to benefit from golf classic

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The United Way of Hancock County will benefit several ways from the Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic, formerly known as The Magnolia Classic held at the Hattiesburg Country Club.

This will be the 19th year for the classic to be held in Hattiesburg, part of the Vantage Cup PGA Tour. The 1986 Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic Pro-Am is scheduled for April 9; and Championship April 10-13. Season tickets for the classic are $15, or $5 daily.

Hilda Bourg, president of the Hancock County United Way, said on Tuesday at the agency's monthly meeting, "The local United Way receives one half of the proceeds for the ticket sales."

"Also, the number of tickets sold by the Hancock County United Way for the classic will determine additional money according to the position of a five member team representing The Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic," Bourg added.

The team is composed of Joey Sindelar, Woody Blackburn, Howard Twitty, Mike Gove, and Kenney Knox.

There are 44 tournaments in 1986 that qualify as official money events where Vantage Cup points are earned.

Kenny Knox won the Honda Classic held February 27-March 2 which will move Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic up the ladder for team point scoring in the Nabisco Charity Challenge.

The Hattiesburg purse was increased from $150,000 to $200,000 in 1986.

The Deposit Guaranty Team currently ranks 20th in this year's standings and should move up after the first place finish of Knox in the Honda Classic.

Bourg stated, "I have visited the Hattiesburg Country Club, site of The Deposit Guaranty Classic, and it is a beautiful place."

There are all types of entertainment planned at the Hattiesburg Country Club during the week of the classic.

Persons interested in purchasing tickets can contact Bourg, Conrad Mauffray, Michael Haas Sr., Bob Hubbard, John Mason, Martha Van Veski, Ellis Cuevas, or May Beyer.

A spokesman for Deposit Guaranty said, "The United Way was selected as the classic's designated charity because of the bank's close relationship with the United Way."

Junior golf slated in Bogalusa

The tenth annual Bogalusa Chamber of Commerce Junior Invitational Golf Championship will be played at Bogalusa Country Club Thursday and Friday, March 27-28. Entry fee is $15.

Participants must be at least 13 years of age but must not have reached 18th birthday on or before March 27.

Field is limited to the first 72 entries received.

The 36-hole tourney - 18 each day - is medal play.

Players will be placed into six flights after the first day of play.

Registration is to be held Thursday, March 27, at 9 a.m. Tee time each day is 9:30 a.m. (Shotgun Start).

Entry deadline is March 24. No refunds after March 24.

Trophies will be awarded to winner and runner-up in each flight, awarded by local merchants to top finishing golfers.

Receipt of all entries will be confirmed by return mail.

Check or money order may be made payable to Bogalusa Chamber of Commerce.

Nearly half the field of an expected 72 junior golfers has already registered.

"By the early registration, it looks as though we're going to have another strong and talented field of junior golfers," said Bill Mohon, tournament director.

Early registrations have come in from across Louisiana and Mississippi.

"We expect to continue in our fine tradition set forth in previous years. Our tradition of excellence is due, in a large degree, to the total community support of the tournament, and of course, to the very talented young golfers who participate annually," said Mohon.

"The Bogalusa Country Club is also a tremendous help in making the tournament a success, year after year," he added.

Golf coaches and scouts from area colleges and universities should again be on hand to watch and evaluate prospective college players. At the tournament last year, one junior golfer was designated to receive a golf scholarship to an area university.

Entry blanks are available by writing to the Bogalusa Chamber of Commerce at 608 Willis Avenue, Bogalusa, Louisiana 70427, or by calling (504) 735-5731.

Dynamite players score four of ten competition slots

Dynamite Girls soccer team of the Bay Area Youth Soccer League participated March 1 in a 'Great Day of Soccer' at Milner Stadium in Gulfport.

The Girls Under-12 team was among more than 1,400 participants in the competition sponsored by Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Gulfport.

Individual awards were presented to top 10 participants in each age group at a ceremony Friday at Gulfport High School Auditorium.

In the Girls Under-12 Division, Dynamite took four of the top 10 positions.

Kristy Heitzmann placed third, Susanna Cameron, fourth; Jennifer

Carter, seventh; and Whitney White, tenth.

Each girl received a t-shirt, certificate, and ribbon, and Heitzmann received a third place bronze medal.

Dynamite scrimmaged the Slidell Select Strikers Saturday at Waveland Elementary.

The Strikers had only nine players, so Dynamite members played with the Strikers to fill out the team.

Scoring for Dynamite during the two-game scrimmage were Kim Weinstein, Erin O'Brien, Day Hays, and new team member Patty Weems who has never played on a soccer team before.

Southern offers unique athletic program

A unique athletic administration program at the University of Southern Mississippi reaches far beyond a traditional but outmoded concept of producing coaches who teach physical education courses and little else.

"We provide qualified coaches, athletic directors, athletic trainers and youth sports directors to meet an ever-increasing need," explained Dr. Billy Slay, chairman of USM's blossoming Department of Athletic Administration and Coaching, the only one of its kind in the Southeast.

and provide the medical knowledge needed to prevent sports injuries before the fact."

Slay estimated some 90 percent of coaches employed in Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana have obtained degrees in physical education, but lack the sports medicine, athletic training and administrative skills his USM graduates receive.

"Without obtaining a double major, requiring on the average a six-year degree program, physical education majors can only teach physical education," he contended, noting many of his graduates are certified by the National Athletic Trainers Association (NATA).

The USM program operates under the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, headed by Dean Walter Cooper. It is one of only two full-time athletic administration and coaching departments in the nation, the other having located at the University of Ohio in Athens.

Eleven other universities offer similar coursework through their physical education departments.

"But our graduates have received courses not required for physical education majors," Slay emphasized.

He said the wide range of courses USM students receive better prepare them for academic roles as classroom teachers of biology, science and other subjects, as well as for roles as coaches, athletic administrators and trainers.

Since its organization — just one year after the USM School of HPER was begun in 1970 — the department has grown from 75 declared majors with three full-time faculty members to one that supports 175 majors, with six full-time and seven part-time faculty.

In addition to helping find employment for 100 percent of its graduates, the department also accounts for 30 percent of the degrees awarded each year by the HPER school, and accounts for some 44 percent of the school's enrollments in upper, lower and graduate-level classes.

Recently, a department-wide comprehensive examination was implemented for seniors in the program. Designed as a self-help exam, the test is designed to allow faculty and students to identify and correct deficiencies in student knowledge.

The exam includes items such as care for the prevention of athletic injuries (a primary responsibility of athletic trainers); training, coaching ethics; and background or training, concepts and philosophies of the student's specialty area.

"Our graduates are well-prepared when they enter the field," Slay said. "We could place twice as many as we graduate each year."

Through the department's expanded educational base, he said USM students receive coursework in athletic administration and courses focusing on the scientific, psychological and sociological aspects connected with coaching, in addition to the regular physical education curriculum.

"School systems can't afford to hire full-time athletic directors," pointed out Slay, a crusty onetime coach who has developed the 15-year-old program.

"Our graduates are extremely marketable because they can teach

From the playground to the laboratory — physical education in the 80's

By Britt Dickens
Physical Education Researcher
University of Mississippi
(The following article is the result of a grant from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association.)

The marathon has become a symbol of our society, of physical education and sport, and of the movement in the United States, as well as most of the world, that physical training is important.

However, the marathon is just one symbol of the fitness craze that has swept America. You do not have to run marathons to be a participant.

Witness the many aerobics programs on television, aerobics books on the best seller lists, road races, bodybuilding contests, and fitness/wellness centers.

A 1982 survey reported that an estimated 90 million men and women, twice the number of 15 years before, engaged regularly in some form of physical activity. In 1984 the number had risen to more than 100 million.

The fitness boom has resulted in a division of emphasis in the field of physical education. The primary emphasis of college and university physical education departments traditionally has been to train teachers and coaches for elementary and secondary school positions. However, the need for supervisors and leaders of adult fitness and wellness programs has grown in recent years. As a result, physical education departments have to develop and offer programs to educate students and meet the needs of the organizations and agencies involved in the fitness/wellness business.

These changes do not suggest that fitness programs are more important than school programs or that fitness specialists are more necessary than school teachers and coaches. However, the simple rule of supply and demand suggests a shift in the emphasis of the physical education curriculum.

Physical education is changing with the times. From small colleges to major universities, physical education departments have developed exercise physiology, exercise testing and cardiac rehabilitation programs.

Professional preparation courses are now being taught that include cardiovascular fitness, strength fitness, aerobic dance, diet control, and exercise motivation.

Traditional fields such as physiology of exercise, biomechanics, and motor development have been broadened by research.

These fields have moved into the fitness/wellness movement through the scientific methods of exercise and sport.

As a result, physical education has become more scientific, a fact which enables leaders to understand better the movements and tasks they are asking their students and athletes to perform.

Their knowledge of how these tasks are accomplished and improved will result in better performances by the athletes.

As physical education departments continue to develop, they will turn out better trained professionals to manage the programs.

The public will become aware that physical education is more than playing games; it is education for life.

Guided walks scheduled

Guided walks of the Naval Live Oaks Area of Gulf Islands National Seashore are now being offered, according to Seashore Superintendent Jerry A. Eubanks.

The walks are set to begin on Saturday, March 22, at 9 a.m. and will continue through the end of April.

The subsequent dates are March 29, April 5, 12, 19, and April 26.

"These guided walks, which began in the Fall of 1985 have been very successful and are a continued attempt to promote more understanding and appreciation among the community concerning this valuable resource," states Eubanks.

Located east of Gulf Breeze, Florida, along either side of U.S. Highway 98 on the Santa Rosa Peninsula is the 1,378 acre tract of land known as the Naval Live Oaks Reservation.

"This site is of the first order of significance in the history of the conservation of natural resources in the United States prior to the Civil War," states Eubanks.

On March 10, 1828, the United States purchased the 1,278 acres comprising the present day Naval Live Oaks Reservation.

On July 5, 1828, President Adams authorized the establishment on the land of the first, and only, Federal tree farm or plantation. This experimental tree farm began operations under the direction of Superintendent Henry M. Brackenridge on January 18, 1829 and continued to function until the beginning of the Civil War.

With the development of ironclad warships, from 1861 to 1870, live oaks along with other types of Naval timber, lost their importance in the Naval construction program.

"Today the Naval Live Oaks Reservation continues to be protected under the administration of the National Park Service and Gulf Islands National Seashore, who's purpose is to conserve the scenery and the natural and historic objects and the wildlife therein and to provide for this enjoyment in a manner and by such means as will leave them unimpaired for the enjoyment of future generations," states Eubanks.

Those persons wishing to participate in the walks should call (904) 932-9994 for reservations and information.

National association honors Ambrose

Dr. Stephen E. Ambrose of Bay St. Louis, alumni distinguished professor of history at the University of New Orleans, has been named recipient of the Creative Programming award of the National University Continuing Education Association.

The award, to be presented during the group's annual conference in Portland, Oregon, in April, honors Dr. Ambrose for his organization of the program, "Peace in Europe: The 40th Anniversary," held at UNO last May.

The program, which drew participants from both Allied and German sides of the war, is being recognized as one of the outstanding efforts in continuing education programming during 1985.

Additionally, Dr. Ambrose will be speaker, along with former presidents Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford, at the Texas A&M University program on "Interventionism: The Role of the United States in Resolving International Conflicts," April 1. The program is part of the university's Wiley Lecture Series.

Director of the Eisenhower Center at UNO, Dr. Ambrose is the author of more than a dozen books, including five on Eisenhower. His two-volume biography of Eisenhower has been hailed "the best to date" on its subject.

Ambrose is currently collecting oral histories from D-day participants throughout the country and plans to publish the material in book form for the 50th anniversary of D-day in 1994.

Moon rocks aquired by USM

A collection of moon rocks on loan from the National Space and Aeronautics Administration will be on display soon at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The rocks, all obtained from the lighted side of the moon, were secured through efforts spearheaded by Dr. Bobby Irby, chairman of the USM Department of Science Education, through the National Space Technology Laboratories at Bay St. Louis.

"We hope to create enthusiasm with students and the general public for aeronautics education," Irby explained. "We have them in our possession for one year, at which time we have the option of renewing the loan for another year."

Irby said the rocks were collected during the Apollo 11 through 17 missions that started in 1969, the year more than a half-billion people witnessed man's first walk on the moon.

Irby said neither living organisms nor fossil life have been found in any of the lunar samples and, because moon rocks have never been exposed to water nor oxygen, contact with the earth's atmosphere could "rust" them. For this reason, Irby explained, the samples are stored in an atmosphere of dry nitrogen.

In addition to the six rock samples on loan, NASA officials awarded the USM department a $6,800 fellowship to establish the status of teachers' knowledge of aerospace studies through a random survey, Irby noted.

The six rock samples include Breccia, Basalt, Anorthosite, orange soil, highland soil and mare soil. Irby provided background information on each of the samples.

Breccia (pronounced breck'sha) was produced when the original crust of the moon was broken up by meteorite impacts. The rock is made of fragments of other rocks that were heated by the collision that broke them apart, so that sharp edges melted and stuck together to other grains to form a new rock.

Basalt was formed when lava flowed onto the Moon's surface, cooling and crystallizing. It is a dark material that fills the moon's lowlands (also called mares or seas), an area that makes up half the moon's face. The rocks fill the moon's circular basins, produced by large meteorites.

Anorthosite is a white rock composed of feldspar mineral crystals. It was formed when the outer moon melted and cooled, forcing its surge upward to the moon's crust.

Orange soil was discovered in December of 1972 on the Apollo 17 mission to the southeast side of the dark circular sea, Serenitatis. It is a mixture of red and black balls that originated from sprays of lava and really should be called volcanic ash.

Highland soil is clear, white, pale green, dark gray and black balls and fragments composed from the breakup of highland rocks by meteorites. It normally contains finer grains and dust separated from the sample by an astronaut's sieve.

Mare soil is produced by meteorites hitting basalt. This sample consists of coarser fragments of the sample collected in 1972 on the Apollo 17 mission, the last visit by humans to the moon.

Irby said the valuable collection will be on display, along with aeronautics education materials, soon at USM.

MOON ROCKS DISPLAYED—The University of Southern Mississippi Department of Science Education has been loaned a collection of moon rocks through the efforts of Dr. Bobby Irby, pictured here, chairman of the department. The small rock samples, taken from Apollo missions 11 through 17, will be on display soon at USM.

Lotteries and public schools

By David Sansing
University of Mississippi
(The following article resulted from a grant from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions expressed are those of the author and not of either organization.)

In the continuing search for adequate funding for public schools, some Mississippians have suggested that the proceeds from a state conducted lottery could be used to supplement appropriated funds. The use of lotteries to finance schools is an old tradition in Mississippi, dating back to the territorial period.

In 1802 when the territorial assembly established Jefferson College at Washington, the lawmakers authorized the Board of Trustees to conduct a $10,000 lottery.

In 1810, or perhaps 1809, the officials of Washington Academy which was operated by Reverend James Smylie, a Presbyterian minister, initiated a lottery to increase the school's revenue.

In 1827 the Board of Trustees of Mississippi College at Clinton was authorized by the legislature to conduct a $25,000 lottery to endow that institution.

Before the Civil War, high schools, academies, and colleges routinely conducted lotteries as a means of raising capital funds, endowments, and, in some cases, operating expenses.

For a short time after the Civil War lotteries continued to be the means by which some institutions augmented their basic funding. Even the University of Mississippi at Oxford resorted to a $5,000 lottery in 1867 to supplement its state appropriation.

There was no great outcry against lotteries by religious leaders of that day and lotteries may have continued into the twentieth century had it not been for the infamous Louisiana lottery. Lotteries of all kinds fell into disrepute because the Louisiana lottery which was conducted by private individuals became entangled in Louisiana politics and resorted to graft, corruption, and bribery in extending its considerable financial and political influence.

Without the lotteries or other means of financial support, Mississippi's public schools and colleges were supplicants before the legislature and became the creatures of the fiscal philosophies of legislative leaders.

Throughout the late nineteenth and well into the twentieth century the Mississippi legislature was under the sway of a clique of fiscal conservatives known as the "low pressure group."

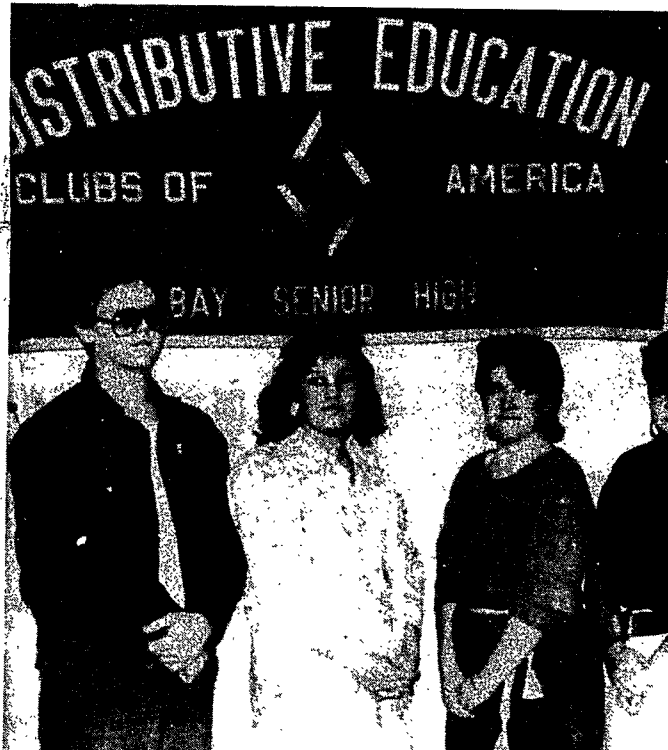

This group believes in low taxes and low state budgets and their personal philosophies were often translated into public policy.

On one occasion a cutback in state appropriations forced the Board of Trustees of the University of Mississippi to assign the duties of the University librarian to the janitor.

Things have changed a great deal in Mississippi in the last 25 years or so. The legislature is now acclaimed for its passage of the Education Reform Act and its willingness to fund the varied programs established by that legislation.

But lawmakers and educators alike are doubtful that current revenue projections will be sufficient. Many believe that alternative sources of revenue will be necessary to fulfill the promises of the Education Reform Act.

One option open to the legislature is a state conducted lottery, an old traditional method of supplementing state appropriations for public schools and colleges.

Coast Episcopal School expanding to Biloxi

The Board of Trustees of Coast Episcopal Schools reported the opening of a new elementary school in Biloxi.

The new school will be located at the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, 451 E. Water Street and will offer classes for students in grades kindergarten, first, second and third.

Coast Episcopal Schools presently has two campuses - the elementary school located in Bay St. Louis at Christ Episcopal Church has pre-school classes for three and four year olds, kindergarten, and elementary grades one through six.

The high school, located on Esplanade Ave. in Pass Christian, is a college preparatory school for grades seven through 12 offering all state required courses plus a variety of electives to meet the needs of the students.

"The new school in Biloxi is a very needed addition to our school system," said Headmaster Peter Psikogios. "We will be able to offer a quality Christian education to young children in the Biloxi-Ocean Springs area without having to travel the long distance to Bay St. Louis."

Both elementary schools will offer the same curriculum of state required academic courses plus French, art, music, physical education, and religion. Class sizes are usually limited to 25 students.

The Episcopal Church of the Redeemer has a 2-year-old education building which has several classrooms, library, meeting room and a chapel.

The building is used for Sunday school and meetings of civic and church groups said the church rector Reverend Jack Biggers.

Parents who wish to enroll their children or get more information may call the Biloxi school at 438-3055 or the church office 438-3123. In the Bay St. Louis-Pass Christian area call the high school at 452-0442 or the elementary school at 467-5125.

Q. Do you think that if marijuana were legalized it would slow down, or even stop, marijuana from being sold?

(L.C. Brookhaven, MS)
A. No. Marijuana is abused because it causes a high. Legalizing marijuana would officially condone the use of a substance that has been medically proven to be both physically and psychologically harmful.

We have enough dangerous drugs that have been legalized such as alcohol and tobacco smoke, let's not add another.
